Returning Soldiers Must Be Cared for Without Loss of Jobs to Men at Work, Says Supervising Officer.

Bridging Gap.

The thing we are trying to do. said. Woods at his first conference with abusing the soldiers job during his abusiner.

"We are finding this is being done in the great majority of instances, but there remains the cases of those boys who feel they are better men than they were when they went away. They want better jobs and perhaps, of a different character from that which they held when called out by the country.

Now you should bear in mind that the function of this organization we are creating will not be to find parties. Ular jobs for particular men. That is to be left largely to such agencies as the united States employment service, and if it goes out of existence on July 1 for want of a continuing appropriation, we help. "We plan to use our so-called 'trou-We pink to use our so-called 'trou-ble shooters' in another way. If we hear that industry is stack or is not opening up as it should and there is no apparent reason therefor we ex-pect to send a man to the given com-munity from which such reports come the will endeavor to find out why and, if possible, facilitate the resumption of such industry.

If possible, facilitate the resumption of such industry.

"Bear in bind that this is not a charity. The American soldiers, the finest the sun ever shone on, does not seek nor want charity. They entered the army at the call of the country, they have been over there fighting Huns and cooties and are coming back better citizens than when they went away. They have more pride in their country and in themselves and, given the chance, will demonstrate it. It will be our duty to try and find the means by which they will be given this chance.

Mr. Woods will have the title of assistant secretary of war and is organizing his forces largely from among the returned soldiers. Betailed as assistants under him there will be men from the various organizations with which he is to co-operate and co-ordinate and from the department of agriculture, with information as to latest needs in the various farming sections throughout the country. This is deemed particularly important now with a greater crop area planted or in prespect than ever before.

ering by those who were short. This however, only lasted for a little while, for later on demand for the new improved and they held at maderate granuary to be a state of the short of the affair indicated that in spife of the continued lack of demand for the actual, there is increasing confidence in higher levels and that the bears are not going to have things their own way so much as in the recent past.

The speculative situation continues more or less confused and much switching is indused in The opinion is freely expressed that holders of long out site contracts will be disposed to hold them and thus force geliveries or a much higher level of prices. The unsatisfactory position of the shorts therein was illustrated by the fact that March in New York jumped above 24 cents and the same in New Orleans sold as high as 25 fee, which still left them too low for spot pirices ruling in the best predictions were made that May and July old style would very probably so to sharp premiums because of the big discounts thereon compared with what spots cost.

The weather over the week-end was not favorable especially in the central and eastern beil. The tremendous rashs in the lower part and the indications the normal of more precipitation naturally aggravated concern over new crop proparations. This figured to greater extent in opinion, as it will like by do from this time on. In the western bell there was not much rain over Sunday, but it was cool out there this norming, and the forecast called for unsettled and cooler, which was not ideal by any means for crop work. The trade is beginning to give attention to conditions affecting the start of the new crop, which the sharp advances being recorded in grains and provisions are almost sure to be of considerable effect in determining acreage devoted to outlimitic, which helps to encourage expectation of more interest in the actual very soon.

On this side there was a steady opening and prices generally higher. Weekend trade advices were better and there seemed more reason for expecting opening foreign outlets as soon as possible, which helped sentiment. The shorts were covering and sellers were not very pientiful. Old May opened 20 points up, at 23.19c. The former worked up to 23.12c during the first few minutes, while the latter only went up 10 additional points, after which came more disposition to take profits. Old May disped to 22.70c, while new dropped back to 22.80c, after which came more steadiness and a recovery to near the early highs. Trading was on a fairly active scale but news still rather scarce. News from the spot department told of higher quotations as a rule, but business still restricted, for buyers were getting few orders and the spinners still it disposed to do much. Confidence, however, was increasing among those who were holding.

More Improvements in Stocks With Last Week's Favorites Still Leading in Rise.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Financial and industrial developments over the week-end were sufficiently favorable to carry prices forward again at the lively opening of today's stock market. Last week's favoritie issues led the further advance. Crucible, Lackawanna and Midvale steels, Inspiration Copper, American International, Hide and Leather preferred and Sumaira and American tobacoos gaining 1 to 4 points. United States Steel and investment rails were barely ateady, however, and oils yielded to pressure with several of the motor specialities.

Steels cased moderately on publication of the U. S. Steels corporations decreased tomage statement for February, but chewhere the morning's gains were generally extended. Oils, motors and distilling shares were added to the usual array of strong stocks, also Peoples Gas and American Telephone.

Trading was less active in the final hour, when renewed aeiling for profits caused fresh reactions of 1 to 2 points in almost every part of the list except oils; which were at their best. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 1,250,800 shares. NEW YORK, March 10.-Pinanch
